Before WOLLMAN, Chief Judge, FAGG and BOWMAN, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM.

Lloyd Friedman sued the City of Jacksonville, Arkansas and Jacksonville Police Officer Brett Hibbs (collectively the City) for violations of his constitutional rights under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 in connection with his arrest for public intoxication and criminal trespass. The district court granted the City's motions to stay discovery and for summary judgment and Friedman appeals. Having carefully reviewed the record and the parties' briefs, we conclude the motions were properly granted and we affirm for the reasons stated in the district court's opinion. See 8th Cir. R. 47B.
