Appeal from the United States
District Court for the District of Nebraska.

[UNPUBLISHED]

Submitted: May 11, 2011
Filed: May 27, 2011

Before LOKEN, MURPHY, and COLLOTON, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM.

After the district court¹ granted the government's Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 35(b) motion and reduced the 235-month prison sentence of Brandon Coffman to 114 months, he filed this appeal arguing that the court should have granted a greater reduction. Upon careful review, we conclude that this appeal does not meet the criteria of 18 U.S.C. § 3742(a). See United States v. Haskins, 479 F.3d 955, 957 (8th Cir. 2007) (per curiam). Accordingly, we grant counsel leave to withdraw, and we dismiss the appeal.

¹The Honorable Richard G. Kopf, United States District Judge for the District of Nebraska.
