

United States Court of Appeals
For the Eighth Circuit

No. 12-3245

United States of America

Plaintiff - Appellee

v.

Wesley Keith Beagle

Defendant - Appellant

Appeal from United States District Court for the District of Minnesota - St. Paul

Submitted: May 3, 2013

Filed: May 7, 2013

[Unpublished]

Before LOKEN, MELLOY, and BENTON, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM.

While Wesley Beagle was serving a second period of supervised release following his release from imprisonment on a federal firearms conviction, he admitted to violating a condition of his supervised release, and the district court¹ revoked supervised release and imposed a revocation sentence consisting of 12 months in prison and 6 months of supervised release. Beagle appeals, arguing that the sentence imposed is greater than necessary to accomplish the goals of sentencing.

Upon careful review, we conclude that the sentence, which falls within statutory limits and the recommended Guidelines range, is not substantively unreasonable. See United States v. Growden, 663 F.3d 982, 984 (8th Cir. 2011) (per curiam); United States v. Petreikis, 551 F.3d 822, 824 (8th Cir. 2009).

Accordingly, the judgment is affirmed.

¹The Honorable Patrick J. Schiltz, United States District Judge for the District of Minnesota.
