

United States Court of Appeals

FOR THE EIGHTH CIRCUIT

No. 96-3776

United States of America,

Appellee,

v.

Roosevelt Hunter, Jr.,

Appellant.

*
*
*
*
*
*
*
*

Appeal from the United States
District Court for the District of Minnesota.

[UNPUBLISHED]

Submitted: March 26, 1997

Filed: March 31, 1997

Before BOWMAN, WOLLMAN, and BEAM, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM.

Roosevelt Hunter, Jr. challenges the sentence the district court¹ imposed after he pleaded guilty to drug and firearms offenses. The government argues the appeal should be dismissed because Hunter agreed in the plea agreement to waive his right to appeal. We agree. We have held that a promise made in a plea agreement is binding on a defendant and may be specifically enforced by the government. See United States v. His Law, 85 F.3d ¹The Honorable Paul A. Magnuson, Chief Judge, United States District Court for the District of Minnesota.

379, 379 (8th Cir. 1996) (per curiam). We therefore specifically enforce Hunter's promise against him by dismissing his appeal.

A true copy.

Attest:

CLERK, U. S. COURT OF APPEALS, EIGHTH CIRCUIT.